

GIU Newsletter for February-March 2024

Dear family and colleagues,

Time flies, and March is already drawing to a close! Thanks be to the Lord, GIU has been able to assist many missionaries through your prayers and support. In this newsletter, we look back on God's grace and share the latest updates from GIU.

1. Mentors visits to Missionary Families for Member Care:

Recently, several mentors visited missionary families on various mission fields to discuss strategies for mission ministry development, providing practical assistance and support.

2. Children's Education Subsidy:

This quarter, we received a very special donation for children's education subsidies. One sister gave her entire first paycheck toward supporting the education of missionary children! Additionally, a foundation is willing to partner with us, matching donations to support missionary children's education expenses.

3. Need for Volunteers to help with Finances:

We extend special thanks to our dedicated volunteers who manage our finances. Despite being volunteers, they faithfully serve, promptly sending year-end donation receipts and diligently preparing tax matters. We recognize the weight of this workload and seek the Lord's guidance for suitable additions to our team.

4. Efforts of the Business as Mission Team:

We express gratitude to the Business as Mission Team for their active preparations for the upcoming "Business As Mission Summit". We believe this summit will usher in a breakthrough in business as missions. Currently, every member of our team is a volunteer, and it is through everyone's tireless efforts that we continue to grow and break new ground.

Of course, we eagerly anticipate working alongside you. We sincerely invite you to join our weekly prayer meetings dedicated to praying for missionaries. You can also participate in short-term ministries such as field visits, summer camps, medical missions, and training. We are actively recruiting administrative volunteers for finance, video production, and editing. Your financial support towards the expansion of God's kingdom is also welcome.

Once again, thank you laboring and serving alongside us.

GIU Team
03/29/2024